

Options needed for SP project

The recent decisions by the Los Angeles city Planning Commission represent a call for all of us to be as constructive as possible at finding the best results for Ponte Vista at San Pedro.

The commissioners did not reject having some senior housing at the site. Their call for a new environmental impact report representative of the new proposed project, the concepts defined by the Planning Department's guidelines and the "no project" alternative allows our community to look at three options we can find common ground with.

As long as all of us hold the best interests of our community over any personal interests we may have, we can help create a project we can be proud of, I feel.

My current idea is to have Ponte Vista built equivalent to The Gardens. This would allow for about 831 units at Ponte Vista and some of them could very well be senior units.

What's so wrong with keeping the scale on par with The Gardens?
