

Ponte Vista raises doubts

First, allow me to reiterate that the city of Los Angeles must approve the Ponte Vista plan. I have read the most recent material opposing Ponte Vista. A thought-provoking flier raised my concern that city planners' desire to approve the project may outweigh proper consideration of the true impact.

Second, the revised project now includes 850 senior units. I can only assume a legitimate market study has been performed beyond the needs of developer Bob Bisno's own "senior advisory team."

Third, Monday's article titled "Debate begins again over SP's Ponte Vista," as well as the Ponte Vista promotional ad on another page, states that Eastview League parking will be "off-site." So, the question is, where is this "off-site" location?

Nonetheless, reporter Donna Littlejohn out-performed herself. I enjoy her easy-to-read style.
